The Australian Lung Cancer Conference 2016

ABSTRACTS - REGISTRATIONS - NOW OPEN!

Registrations for the 6th Australian Lung Cancer Conference (ALCC) are now officially open. This year’s conference will be held at the Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre on Thursday 18 August – Saturday 20 August.

Plenary sessions are relevant, interactive and focused on producing an outcome relative to multidisciplinary care. Pertinent topics ensure the program appeals to many delegates including physicians, surgeons, oncologists, pathologists, general practitioners, nurses and people holding similar responsibilities involved in the management, treatment and research of lung cancer and mesothelioma throughout Australia.

A preliminary program will be released shortly and announcements of confirmed international speakers. Please visit the website for regular updates.

Registrations are strictly limited and will be accepted on a first come, first served basis (per registration category/discipline). Please register early to avoid disappointment.

(Due to room capacity restrictions, ALCC 2016 is limited to 500 registrations; registrations within the disciplines will be limited to ensure multidisciplinary team representation).

Call for Abstract Submissions

ALCC is an opportunity for health professionals, researchers, scientists and advocates to showcase their work. Those working in areas topical to thoracic cancer are encouraged to submit abstracts that relate to cancers of the lung and the 2016 theme: Aiming high for lung cancer: encouraging quality and value.

Deadline for abstracts is Friday 15 April with successful applicants notified on Friday 13 May. Visit the website for more information and to submit your abstract.

Travel Grants Available for ALCC 2016

- National travel grants to support young investigators and/or first time presenters who have an accepted abstract.
- Developing country travel grants will be available to support registration, flights, accommodation and a local mentorship program at a local institute of their choice. These are awarded to successful abstract authors.
